Glacier Cave

Geo SPA

For centuries, the geothermal heat north of Húsavík has been known to residents, who have utilized it for bathing and washing. Drilling for hot water at Húsavíkurhöfði in the mid-20th century revealed water that turned out to be hot seawater, too rich in minerals to be suitable for heating houses.

Instead of letting this hot water go to waste, an old cheese barrel was installed at Húsavíkurhöfði. There, Húsavík residents could enjoy the health benefits of bathing in hot seawater. Those suffering from skin conditions such as psoriasis have found relief by bathing in the water, which is at an optimal temperature of 38°-39°C.

The water in the GeoSea sea baths comes from two drillholes, one located by the cheese barrel and the other by Húsavík harbor. There is no need to use any cleaning agents or equipment, as the steady flow of water from the drillholes, between the pools, over their edges and into the sea ensures that the water stays within the limits stipulated by health regulations.

Whale
Watching
Husavik

DAY 07- WHALE & PUFFIN WATCHING IN HUSAVIK –ASBYGRI – HIJODAKLETTAR – DETTIFOS- HUSAVIK

Today after breakfast Experience the Original Husavik Whale Watching tour that has built a reputation for the town of Husavik as the Whale Watching Capital of Iceland. Then get up close & personal to The Puffins that inhabit Iceland.

Asbyrgi is a glacial canyon in the north of Iceland, located approximately 38 kilometres east of Husavik on the Diamond Circle road. The horseshoe-shaped depression is part of the Vatnajökull National Park and measures approximately 3.5 km in length and over 1 km wide.

Dettifoss is a waterfall in Vatnajökull National Park in Northeast Iceland, and is reputed to be the second most powerful waterfall in Europe after the Rhine Falls. Dettifoss is situated on the Jökulsá river, which flows from the Vatnajökull glacier and collects water from a large area in Northeast Iceland.
